The sun was making a shadow of Kipper
on the wall.

It was a hot day.

A very hot day.

Kipper lay on his blanket, and sucked his drink through a curly-wurly straw.

‘Today is a paddling pool kind of day,’ he said.

The paddling pool
was on the top shelf
of the toy cupboard.

Kipper grabbed it and
pulled enthusiastically.

The toys in the cupboard
fell on Kipper's head.

Ouch!

It was hard work
blowing up the paddling pool.

So when Kipper was finished, he turned on the hose and went to buy an ice cream.

On the way back
the ice cream
melted down Kipper's
paw, and plopped into a puddle.

‘That’s odd,’ said
Kipper. ‘It wasn’t raining when I left.’

The puddle was as big as a pond.

In the middle was Kipper's paddling pool
looking very saggy.

'I know what has happened,' said Kipper.

sssssss!

Kipper took the sticking plaster
from his head.

Ouch!

And he mended the
paddling pool . . .

... which was clever,
wasn't it?
